

1270.8

Miss Eleanor P. Jones

Story and Rewrite - Page 2

A dentist was surprised when a woman patient took from her finger a heavy gold wedding ring saying, "Please use this for filling my teeth."

Said the dentist "Are you sure you wouldn't rather let me use our regular gold?"

"I'm afraid not" said the patient regretfully. "I promised my first husband before his death that I would always wear his wedding ring. I'm getting married again and the man I'm going to marry has made me promise that I'll wear only his ring, and I must keep my promise to both".

"The End"